

Phd in French Literature

Candidates for doctoral studies must pass the national competition, as well as a written assessment (literary text commentary, translation of Persian-French literary text) and an interview. This diploma is prepared over 4 and a half years (9 semesters). The first 3 semesters are devoted to specialized seminars.

Success in the general exam will validate this first step and allow the doctoral student to submit his thesis project and to defend it before the jury appointed by the department council, during the 4th semester. The thesis, equivalent to 18 UV, will be written in French ($\pm$ 300 pages). The defense will be public and the jury will be made up of internal and external members of the university awarding the diploma. A request for exemption will be possible.
